

Celebrating New American Gardens exhibit

Public gardens across America are engaging, inviting, and dynamic. Gardens are living creations, as they display seasonal changes along with the flow of time. This exhibit celebrates American gardens created or renovated within the last five years. These gardens showcase new plant collections and provide people a place to connect with nature, and foster sustainability. Come explore what's new in public gardens!

Conservatory West Gallery | January 31 - October 15, 2019

Gardens with projects featured in the exhibit are:

- Adkins Arboretum, Maryland
- Brooklyn Botanic Garden, New York
- Castle Hill on the Crane Estate, Massachusetts
- Chicago Botanic Garden, Illinois
- Denver Botanic Gardens, Colorado
- Fernwood Botanical Garden and Nature Preserve, Michigan
- Green Bay Botanical Garden, Wisconsin
- The Grotto Gardens at the Dayton VA Medical Center, Ohio
- Longwood Gardens, Pennsylvania
- Marie Selby Botanical Gardens, Florida
- New Orleans Botanical Garden, Louisiana

- Phipps Conservatory and Botanical Gardens, Pennsylvania
- Portland Japanese Garden, Oregon
- Reiman Gardens, Iowa
- San Diego Zoo, California
- San Diego Zoo Safari Park, California
- State Botanical Garden of Georgia, Georgia
- Tohono Chul, Arizona
- Tulsa Botanic Garden, Oklahoma
- United States Botanic Garden, District of Columbia
- Waterfront Botanical Gardens, Kentucky

Photos and information about each garden's project coming soon.

Source URL: <https://www.usbg.gov/celebrating-new-american-gardens-exhibit>